The final event of the Quad City Amateur Tour golf season tees off this afternoon in East Moline and local golfers from the Illinois side of the river are hoping to make it a memorable weekend in the Hasley Cup vs. friendly rivals from Iowa.

Success for Team Illinois, though, has been a tough proposition as Iowa has dominated in the annual Ryder Cup-style matches. Team Iowa has not only won 10 of the 12 matches (with one tie), but done so by an average score of 18.5-9.5 points.

Illinois' last win came on home turf at Oakwood Country Club in 2004. Since then, Iowa has won the last six years and scored at least 21 of the 32 available points. The teams are comprised of the top season-long point scorers on the QCAM Tour circuit along with two captain's picks. Three sections of play will be contested — two pairs formats ahead of the final singles matches — over two days.
